PAUSE FOR THOUGHT

Last month I visited South Africa as part of a small group visiting our link diocese, the Diocese of Matlosane. Being a link diocese means that we are twinned with them; enjoying an on-going relationship to enable mutual flourishing by the sharing of good practice, ideas, sharing of resources, and partnering to develop mission & ministry across the worldwide Church. Each diocese arranges visits to the other to experience something of local church life as well as enjoying local cultural things.

Although our trip was short we managed to fit quite a bit in. Bishop Steve Diseko (Diocesan Bishop of Matlosane) met us at the airport and drove us from place to place. It was a real joy and blessing to see the landscape of South Africa and we even managed to go on a safari where we saw lots of animals including an elephant that walked right past our truck - what an awesome sight that was. We also visited different churches: Rob Trautmann (a local lay minister) showed us around St Mary's Church in Potchefstroom, and I assisted Bishop Sarah (our Area Bishop of Shrewsbury) who took a communion service in the Cathedral, in Ikageng (part of Klerksdorp) - it was a very warm evening and worship was joyful and spirited with dancing and drums.

We also had chance to meet with clergy across the diocese and hear about what life is like for them and their parishes - they too are facing similar challenges and issues following the Covid pandemic (financial problems and declining church attendance) but there is also a growth in pastoral encounters and missional projects supporting those most in need (e.g. Widow support group, children's crèche's etc.).

Whilst there was much to celebrate and give thanks for on this trip, we also saw things that were difficult to see such as the Potchefstroom Concentration Camp Memorial and Cemetery (erected in memory of the 1141 men women and children who died in a one of the British Concentration Camp's during the Anglo-Boer War 1899-1902) and the Apartheid Museum in Johannesburg.

It was hard to be reminded of the reality and brutality of humanity and given the things that are happening at the moment, I found myself wondering if there is any hope for a better future. In a time of great uncertainty as we seek security and assurance, it is easy to get caught up by the false promises of extreme groups and powerful people, to try and solve our problems. I think this quote speaks to the heart of the matter ... "The line between good and evil runs not through states, nor between classes, nor between political parties either - but right through every human heart." (Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn)

But as I travelled between these living reminders of a troubled past, I was doing so with the hope for a better future, something that underpins the story of Easter. We have just celebrated Easter, another historical event where people acting out of fear and anxiety release a murderer and condemn an innocent man - whose only crime was to preach about the Kingdom of God, one that is founded on love, tolerance, and freedom. We need to be open to hear Jesus's message today because in the midst of trouble, we can find the only real hope that is found in knowing Jesus and a future that is transformed and shaped by love, not hatred. The key message of Easter is hope - faith in the future, and a new beginning. Jesus says "I have come that they [you] may have life, and have it to the full".

As we move into the season of Spring with new life and growth, I wonder what new possibilities there are for us to embrace the hope we can have in Jesus. If you are curious about what this might mean, why not come along to one of our church activities or services and see for yourself.

Wild Daffodils

At this time of year, the yellow trumpets of daffodils brighten up even the dullest spring day. Most of what we see are planted garden varieties, but a real treat is to find wild daffodils (Narcissus pseudonarcissus).

Once widespread, the wild daffodil is now much rarer, having mysteriously declined during the 19th century. It now has a disjointed distribution, for instance it is found mainly in south Devon, pockets of the Black Mountains in Wales, stretches of the Gloucestershire-Herefordshire border country, the Sussex Weald, Farndale in Yorkshire and the Lake District. Elsewhere, even in suitable habitat, it only occurs in small patches miles apart. For example, in churchyards.

The wild daffodil's status as a popular flower was particularly celebrated around Newent, Dymock and Ledbury on the Gloucestershire-Herefordshire border which acquired the nickname of 'The Golden Triangle.' In the 1930s the Great Western Railway ran 'Daffodil Specials', from London for weekend tourists to walk amongst the 'golden tides' and to buy fresh bunches at garden gates. Farmers and orchard owners used to have them as a cash-crop, harvested on a 'Pick Your Own' basis. At the end of April, the meadows went back to their function of growing hay or fruit.

A 1930's guide to a village in the Golden Triangle wrote: They are picked by the local women and children and were sold to an agent, who sends them to South Wales, where they find a ready sale for Mothering Sunday and also for Palm Sunday, for many places the old (Welsh) custom of 'flowering the graves' on that day still persists. The daffodils are also sent to northern industrial towns. Info from Flora Britannica by Richard Mabey

How to spot a wild daffodil - The wild daffodil is smaller than horticultural varieties, with paler petals and a deeper yellow trumpet-like tube. The leaves are grey/green, flattened and around 15mm wide. It is relatively short (30-35cm) and forms clumps which carpet the ground. A top tip is that unless there are several hundreds of them looking particularly small and washed out, they probably aren't wild!

Please help us to map the churchyards containing wild daffodils by taking a photo on the iNaturalist app and posting it on our Beautiful Burial Grounds project.

All the best, Harriet

CALLING ALL LADIES!!

RENEW YOUR MIND, Saturday April 13th 11am-3pm

Ladies Day

Booking is essential to ensure a place. Please contact St John's office on 01952 670033 or email admin@stjohnsmuxton.org.uk

There is no charge for the event but there will be opportunity to make a donation on the day.

Following the success of our recent Ladies Day we have been asked to repeat the experience, allowing us to relax, explore and listen to music in the company of old and new friends - and of course enjoy a delicious lunch! There will also be options to take part in workshops and craft activities, as well as a Pilates demonstration.

Mindfulness and its effect on our wellbeing is a hot topic these days so we are planning to explore it in a new way, which is why we are calling the event RENEW YOUR MIND. Ellie Cheetham Wilkinson, Curate of All Saints Church, Wellington, is coming along to share her story with us. Our hope is that the day will refresh and open new doors for us as individuals and as a community.
